[Correspondence of the New York Herald.] Washington, 20th Nov. 1845.

" Do you play at whist, Emperor ?" inquired Madame de Stael "No," said Napoleon. "What do you play at?" "At Kings," was the reply. So is it with James K Polk. I am fast coming to the conclusion that before Congress has been together many hours, the Colonel will answer that very sig-

One of the most sensible, and really one of the greatest men in the whig party, was heard to say not many days ago, "This Oregon question is becoming the greatest question of the civilized world since the whig party, it is true; and this, of course, I don't like, but I can hardly keep myself out of the cur-inke, but I can hardly keep mysch out the correct that I perceive clearly is drifting on to the shores of the Pacific. In spite of my whing principles, and in spite of my own convictions, almost of right and wrong, I feel like taking up the Oregon cry that is going up from every State in the Union. The fact is, we have reached, as Bennett says—('d— the fellow, he is always more than half right,' and then he passed one of those splendid euloriums upon yourself that nobody can withhold, from Queen I Victoria up to Louis Philippe, and from him up to Colonel Polk; but never mind such things—you are too used to them to be van)—"yes, as Bennett says. (age, he is a shrewd fellow)—we have reached our National Rubicon—this time at least it is as he says. We are on the eve of an astounding revolution in Church and State. All the elements of social and political feeling are awake. The feeling that his slumbered in the bosons of two generations of toilers, and of speculators; that noble national feeling that rolled the car of independence through battle and blood for seven years, is now awake, and it is coming forth in its strength."

This was an honest confession—and I doubt not it speaks the feeling of nine out of ten of the American people. The whiig party would naturally have dissolved after their last deleat, since there is no great principle of moment to bind them together—but their complete annihilation must be the result of trying to breast themselves up against popular mational enthusiasm. They will gain nothing by parading the interminable array of British feets, and talking about standing armies—England has no cause for hostilities on the Oregon queetion, and even if she had she will probably have enough to do to take care of herself. For four years the popularity of Sir Robert's government, and even the stability of the throne, have rested on the mercy of good harvests. A few shiners, more or less, decided the question. Now we are anxiously looking for the news by the next steamer should tell us that in the pro recreant to all their principles, and desert their leader in the hour of issue, of hope, of anxiety, and of triumph.

Mr. Polk's merit has had little to do in bringing on this wonderful crisis, which will involve the clash of nations—the shock of the old age and the new. It is the end of an era in human history—a climax in the progress of nations. Such events are under the control of super-human agencies—of super-human power. But how we are to bear ourselves in the midst of such grand and exciting issues, depends, in a great measure, upon the wisdom, the firmness, and the patriotism of the President. His diplomacy for eight months has had muchto do in shaping events—and the policy revealed by his message, will decide, in some measure, how we are to conduct curselves. While Mr. Polk is not a man to seek an occasion for pushing upon Great Britain an unjust demand while her throne is rocking "in the heated, fever dreams of famine," yet he will consider it fortunate for his administration, that a crisis seems to be approaching in the affairs of the British empire, which will cripple her power to dictude the peace of the world, because we do not allow her lion to trample along our borders.

Don't neglect to send me the extra containing the foreign news by the first steamer; you must also send me the require Heruld. For several days I foreign news by the first steamer; you must also send me the regular Herald. For several days I have not got a sight of the paper till twelve o'clock. The news boy says he cannot keep one for me; somebody gets it away from him. Just at the presomebody gets it away from him. Just at the present time, particularly, there is an intense anxiety to earn the next loreign news—and, of course, we shall get it through the Herald quicker than an/ other channel. It things look dark in Great Britain and Ireland, the news will color the message. The parts and parcels of this important document are all written; but, as printers say, it is not made up.

Probably no President in the history of the country, has ever had so glorious a crisis to deal with as James K. Polk—the nation's eye is fixed on his movements. No time for items of news.

New Foatuse in the Custom House Difficulties—The Misses

Ince Matrimonials—The Markets, $\phi_c$.

There is positively nothing stirrin—present in the news line—every thing is dull, stale, and unprofitable.

The custom house affairs assume a new feature every day. The latest and de with regard to the Collector's borth is, that it is to be tendered to the Hon. Dabney S. Carr, who is now here on leave of absence, as Minister to Constantinople. Mr. Carr, it is said, is willing to accept, and Mr. Frisk is to be appointed in his place as Minister. Gen. Marriott is to receive the politicar's reward, by being removed from office without a why or wherefore. However, he is rich, and eccording to democratic practice, has no right to feed from the public crib, when there are so many hungry fellows too lazy to work, and too proud to pay their debts, who would like to take his place.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellicott, late Miss Fanny Ince, the vocalist, are still rusticating, or rather spending their honey moon at the Eutaw House. A reconciliation with the old folks is on the carpet, and will doubtless be successful. Miss Emma Ince, the danseuse, is filling an engagement at the Holliday street Theatre, on completing which, she is, Ilearn, to enter the bonds of matrimony with a young man of great wealth, who has neither pa nor ma to quarrel with her about running off with their son after the knot is tried.

The Mankers.—Our merchants are neither inclined to buy or sell flour at the present prices, so that the market is at a stand still, all agreeing to wait the arrival of the steamer from Europe. The general opinion here is, that a further advance will take place on the receipt of the news. Ince Matrimonials-The Markets, &c.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21, 1845 There is no local occurrence of importance to-day.— Frazer's benefit last night at the Chestnut was an excel lent one. The pit and lower circle were growded, but the second tier was not so full Donnizetti's comic opera of the "Love Spell," was performed, and was received with unfeigned delight by the audience. Seguin sung and played the Doctor. He showed himself a glorious tellow.

and played the Doctor. He showed himself a glorious feilow.

Jabez Boyd was to have suffered the extreme penalty of the law at Westchester, at 12 o'clock to-day, for the murder of a lad, under atrocious circumstances, some time since. The train is not yet in, but I suppose that execution has been done upon the wretched culprit.

The stock market exhibited considerable activity to-day, but there was not much change in the prices of most of the stocks on the list. State 5s declined; Reading Railroad, shares, i; Texas Bonds. 8 per cent, rose li; Wilmington Railroad i; and Lehigh 6s. j. DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AND LOSS OF LIFE.—A correspondent at Rochester, N. H., writes to us under date of 18th instant, as follows:—I take one moment, before the closing of the mail, to say that a disastrous fire occurred last evening at Million Three Ponds, consuming the new and excellent yarn mill of A. S. Howard & Co. Loss about $12,000, and no insurance. The enterprising gentlemen composing this firm, are severe sufferers by this calamity, having invested much of what they possessed in the enterprise. They have the sympathies of the community. Worse than all, was the loss of human life. A very worthy young man, the sen of John H. Varney, who was a watchman in the mill was burnt to death. He retired to his bed about ten to twenty minutes before the catastrophe occurred, his bed the ing in the garret, and had probably fallen into sound sleep. The feelings of his parents and friendsc un hardly be imagined. The mill being within a few rods of his resilence, the scene and the reflections must have been to them acutely painful. No person is blamed for this occurrence. The fire caught from the falling of the lamp from a lantern suspended over the lap-winder, which was in operation at the time. The books were not at the mill, and were saved.

Another Stramboat Lost.—Capt Cornelius arrived in St Louis last evening from the wreek of Another Steamhoat Lost.—Capt Cornelius arrived in St Louis last evening, from the wreck of the steamhoat Lutil Mail, on the Missouri river. This vessel, we learn, struck a snag about twenty-five miles above Jefferson City, was rounded to, and filled with water to the shore. The boat is a total loss—the eighe was saved. She was freighted with hemp and hidos—the former, of course lost—the latter saved. The Little Mail was descending from Weston, and was full of passengers—all of whom afterwards shipped on board the Amaranth, which vessel has not yet arrived at this port. There was insurance, but what amount we could not learn, on the bodf, at the agency of the Columbus office, in this city. The Little Mail was bwned, we believe, on the Ohio, but during the very low water in the Missouri, had been employed in that trade.—Republican, 12th instant.

LATER FROM MONTEVIDEO.—Letters have been received from Montevideo to the Sth of August, with customary accounts of bloodshed and disorder. Oribe is in high spirits and has "brilliant prospects." Our minister, Mr. Wise, it is said, is astonishing Christendom by his prodigious efforts to suppress the slave trade, and has brought to light many things too notorious to be denied. His statement of the interest that England has in the affair, will probably surprise many. The Raritan sailed on the 24th July for Rio Janerio; the Bainbridge has not been heard from (up to the latest account from Rio) for some three months, and it is feared she has followed the Grampus. There are various rumors aftest that the Boston will return home this fall—Baltimore Cipper, Nov. 21.

Markets.

New Orleans, Nov. 13.—The transactions yesterday amounted to 1100 bales at former prices. This morning, up to 12 o'clock, no sales have transpired beyond 500 bales in small lots.

The excitement in the Flour market continued yesterday, and the total sales reached 17,000 barrels, chiefly on speculation. Prices for common brands of Onio, &c., closed at $5,623, but the bulk of the business was done at $5,503. This morning the former rate is freely offered, but holders refuse to sell under $5,75. About 600 bbls. have been sold to consumers at this rate.

Corn is held at 55 cents—no sales yesterday. A demand has sprung up for prime Fork, and there are several orders in market at $11,00—holders were asking $11,25, $11,50. Another sale of 115 hhds. Tobacco was made yesterday evening on private terms. It is destined for the French market, together with the 160 hhds. pur chased yesterday worning.

A very good demand prevailed yesterday for Sugar, and sales were made of 300 hhds. at steady prices, ranging for extremes from 4 a $4 cents per B. Sales of 500 barrels Molasses were made at 21 cents per gallon.—This morning there is again a good enquiry for both articles, but the supply is rather light.

Whiskey is selling pretty freely this morning at 21 cents per gallon for rectified. Raw is worth 23 a 23; cents.

COMMERCIAL.

New York, Friday, Nov. 21.

The Flour Marker.—The arrival of the Massachusetts with three days later news, caused a commotion among the speculators, holders and buyers, and about 2500 barrels changed hands during the day—but prices are anything but settled; some were selling for $7, some for less, while in this state of excitement the arrival of the news by the Boston boat was reported to be in town, when all operations, as far as holders were concerned, ceased, until the nature of it was ascertained, but owing to the late hour in which it was made public, we heard of no transactions. The probability is that Flour will go up at least 50 cents by to-morrow.

Corrow.—The market was dull to-day, and the prices rather in favor of the buyer; the sales were small, say 400 bales.
